President Wilson Announces That Action of America Over Sinking of Wm. Frye Boat Will Be Based Upon Result Of Searching Inquiry—German Captain Refuses to Interne—Delicate Questions Raised By Attitude of Sea Rover.

Associated Press. Washington, March 11.—President Wilson announced today that a searching inquiry would be made into the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich. This statement was issued at the White House.

Discussion of the affair in official quarters was taken to foreshadow a protest to Germany against the sinking of the American vessel. The contention of the German commander that the American ship had strayed from war aboard, and therefore destruction was justified, has been set up as a plea in other cases. The United States has been recognized by the world as the only justification for such action on the part of the United States.

The fact that the Prinz Eitel Friedrich was commanded by a German officer, and that the ship was a converted cruiser, will be taken into consideration by the United States.

The crew of the American ship William P. Frye, sunk by the German auxiliary cruiser, was released from the ship today and the captain, who was taken ashore, has refused to grant him the necessary time for repair and restrains the converted cruiser will attempt to continue its voyage of adventure.

Washington, March 11.—(Bulletin) The British steamer Charcas, said to have been one of the Prinz Eitel's prizes, was American owned, the property of W. R. Grace & Company of New York, and was on her way to from Berlin today says that Constantinople reports yesterday's bombardment of the Dardanelles as unsuccessful, and that landing attempts have failed.

By Associated Press. New York, March 11.—Harry K. Thaw's attempt to get evidence concerning his sanity into the records of his trial for conspiring to escape from Matteawan failed today. The state brought its case to a close this afternoon and the defense immediately made the usual motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the state had failed to prove its contentions. The motions were all denied.

House and Senate leaders today expressed the opinion that the subject of legislation to amend the conservancy law is dead, as a result of indefinite postponement of the Garver bill yesterday. Senator Garver denied these reports.

BIG GAIN MADE BY ENGLISH

GREATEST ADVANCE MADE BY BRITISH IN NORTH FRANCE IN MANY MONTHS—GERMAN LINE OF COMMUNICATION IS THREATENED.

London, March 11.—Under cover of the fire of heavy French artillery, British troops have captured Neuve Chappelle, three and a half miles north of La Basse, taking a thousand prisoners and several machine guns.

This is the most considerable advance reported from the north of France for several months past. The advance is strategically of great importance, as the position commands the road between La Basse and Lille, and makes the German hold on La Basse insecure.

London, March 11.—British forces in France advanced three quarters of a mile yesterday, capturing all the intervening positions of the enemy, according to an official announcement today.

SPANIARDS ARE KILLED

Washington, March 11.—The Spanish Ambassador informed the State Department today that four points in the middle west to eastern Spaniards had been assassinated in seaboard and interior points, including Mexico City, and presented reports from Buffalo, Erie and Pittsburg, were of the looting and burning of private residences in the outskirts. He made no specific request for action, vestigations of their reasonableness.

INHABITANTS FLEE FROM DOOMED CITY

Great Fleet of French Transports Moving Tens of Thousands of Troops Toward The Dardanelles—German Officers In Charge of Turks.

By Associated Press. Geneva, via Paris, March 11.—The first guns fired by the allied fleet in the Dardanelles stopped all business in Constantinople, and was the signal for a panic, according to Swiss travelers who have arrived here from the Turkish capital. They declare many wealthy families are leaving. Constantinople is said to be full of officers, including Germans. There are persistent reports in the capital that a large army will arrive from Adrianople. A man naval officer under commission from the German government, and the fact that no lives were lost when the Frye was sunk, transferred the case from the realm of criminal proceedings, under the federal statutes, under a possible charge of piracy, and makes it a subject of diplomatic negotiations with the object of gaining reparation for the owners and a disclaimer of unfriendliness. That the United States would ask for damages and an explanation from the German government was regarded as certain.

HOUSE ACTS ON SEVERAL MEASURES

Columbus, Ohio, March 11.—

Reconsideration will be asked of the Niding state boxing commission bill, beaten in the house on a vote of 61 to 51. One more affirmative vote would have given the measure a constitutional majority. Merkel of Cleveland, who led the debate for the bill, argued it would elevate boxing and prevent brutality. Friends of the measure were greatly disappointed at the failure to secure the necessary votes. The strongest attack on the bill was made by Andrew Fleming of Mahoning. He declared the purpose of the bill was to override public sentiment in communities and force boxing matches on them.

By 74 to 26 the house passed the McFarland bill, an administration measure, re-establishing the board of control of the state agricultural experiment station at Wooster, which had been under such control since it was created in 1882 until it was merged in the state agricultural commission two years ago. The unsalaried board of five members are to be named by the governor for five year terms.

Representative Hite of Perry, author of the Hite good roads law, offered a resolution for submission of a constitutional amendment limiting legislative sessions to sixty days, as is done in a number of states. The house referendum committee still has under consideration the resolution for annual sessions, the session in one year to be limited to forty-five days and devoted exclusively to introduction of bills, which are not to be passed until the following year.

The house passed, but refused to attach an emergency clause to the Niding bill, making it a misdemeanor to buy or sell an automobile from which the manufacturer's serial number has been removed.

Civil Service "Ripper."

As an administration measure with the approval of Governor Willis, favorable report was ordered by the house civil service committee of the Barnes civil service bill, radically amending the present merit system law. The bill rips out the present state civil service commission and all the municipal service commissions in the state, empowering Governor Willis to appoint a new state commission and mayors to appoint new local commissions. All employees holding jobs by virtue of noncompetitive examination are required to take competitive examinations.

A bill by Mr. Harding permits physicians to have custody and care of dope fiends, instead of sending them to institutions. It aims to care for victims of the drug habit who, under the Harrison congressional law, no longer are able to get drugs.

GO TO CHURCH The Church Is the Gateway to Real Happiness

GO TO CHURCH if you wish to be saved.

There is a hell. No doubt about that. Like heaven, it BEGINS HERE AND NOW. Recently the newspapers carried a story relating the suicide of a well known man. Ten years before he murdered his young wife and allowed another to be executed for it. He wrote: "I can endure it no longer. Each day the awful secret plunges me into the torment of the damned." For ten years he had lived in hell and then, like Judas, went out into the darkness and hanged himself. No writer, even with an inexhaustible vocabulary, can paint a literal fire equal to the one that exists in many a human soul. If there is no hell, why plan churches, missions, slum settlements?

THE MOMENT A MAN ENTERS A CHURCH HE FEELS BETTER. THE CHURCH IS THE GATEWAY TO HEAVEN. WHY DON'T YOU JOIN THE GO TO CHURCH THROG? YOU'LL FIND THE BEST PEOPLE IN YOUR COMMUNITY IN CHURCH. IF YOU HAVE BEEN A BACKSLIDER GET BUSY NOW. IT IS NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND. YOU'LL FIND THAT IF YOU GO TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY YOU'LL WANT TO GO TO CHURCH THE FOLLOWING SUNDAY.

There are thousands who would not dream of staying away from church on Christmas day or Easter, but who Sunday after Sunday will miss GOING TO CHURCH. It is to these people that this appeal is particularly addressed. If it is wrong to miss GOING TO CHURCH on Christmas and Easter, why is it not wrong to do so on Sunday?

WHEN THE GO TO CHURCH MOVEMENT GOT INTO FULL SWING A YEAR AGO THERE WAS A SPLENDID RESPONSE. THE CHURCHES WERE FILLED. DON'T LET THIS SPLENDID MOVEMENT DIE OUT. IT IS ONE OF THE BEST—IF NOT THE BEST—AGITATIONS THAT EVER WAS STARTED.

DO YOUR PART.

CARRANZISTAS ARE DISPERSED

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—Carranza troops south of Queretaro have been dispersed by the Villa army, according to advices, and the way is now clear for General Villa's advance south into the Mexican capital, which Villa dispatches assert is now held by General Zapata. Villistas deny that Obregon's main army advanced north of Mexico City after abandoning the capital, but assert that Obregon returned south and abandoned the men he had sent against Villa at Queretaro. Villa is expected to move immediately towards the Mexican capital as fast as he can reconstruct the railroad.

SITUATION IMPROVED

Washington, March 11.—The situation in Mexico City has greatly improved, according to advices received at the state department. This improvement is attributed to the note sent by the United States to General Carranza, the supreme chief. The situation with regard to food, however, is still reported as serious, and appeals were received through official and unofficial channels that immediate steps be taken to insure relief of this phase of the general conditions at the Mexican capital.

General Obregon is still in Mexico City. However, it was indicated that he was preparing to evacuate the city. No rioting has occurred in the capital, so far as is known here, but a Swedish citizen has been killed.

VILLA WOULD FIGHT AGAINST INTERVENTION

Attempt to Subdue Carranza Would Be Resented.

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—In a statement received from Torreon, General Villa declared that in event of intervention of foreign troops to subdue the Carranza forces he and all other Mexicans would unite against the invaders. Villa denied recent interviews in which he was quoted as saying that he would not oppose armed intervention on the part of several powers "to reduce Carranza to order," provided that he would be made commander of such a move.

"There is nothing more absurd than such an assertion," said the message from the northern leader, "since I, as a true Mexican, always have insisted that all our troubles be settled solely among ourselves. Should, unfortunately, some nation invade our territory, I would be ready to fight against it without measuring the danger or the number of the invaders until I would see the entire country in the possession of Mexicans only. All of us would fight united against the common enemy."

General Carranza has issued a categorical denial of all the charges made by the press, the people and different governments against the conduct of General Obregon while in Mexico City. He says that foreigners especially have had all the protection that could be afforded, and that wherever assassinations and other outrages have been committed they were affected under other regimes.

EXPORTS INCREASE RAPIDLY

Balance of Trade in Uncle Sam's Favor, $400,000,000.

Washington, March 11.—Figures made public by the department of commerce give impressive evidence of the extraordinary strides the United States is taking in its foreign trade. These figures show that the exports of the country continue to flow out in increasing volume; that the United States shipped to other countries in the month of January over 30 per cent more goods and products than it did in the same month of last year. The encouraging feature of these January returns is that they show that the trade expansion is extending now to many articles.

The details for January, however, have only served to direct attention anew to the extraordinary balance of trade in its favor which the United States is piling up against the rest of the world. The remarkable record of the last seven months has not only wiped out in its entirety the big floating debt which the United States owed to Europe at the beginning of the war, but credits in America's favor are now forming abroad at a rapid rate. If exports continue at the same rate as in the last two months the total balance of trade will soon be the largest in the history of the country.

For the last three months, December, January and February, the total exports amounted to $778,511,871 and the imports $367,028,862. The excess of exports over imports, or the balance in trade in favor of the United States for these three months, reached the enormous total of $411,483,000.

Men That Turn The Wheels

Men that turn the wheels of progress are the great assets of every community.

They are the men who are willing to investigate new ideas; to try out those things which have proved beneficial to other communities; willing even to go down in their pockets when necessary—the big, generous, wide-awake men, sacrificing self-interest, personal comfort to the good of the many.

They are men of sufficient business judgment to discriminate between that which is worthy and legitimate and that which is valueless; to recognize whatever will be of real benefit to public welfare, civic development or moral uplift.

They are the men who follow the motto "Service, not self." You can put your hand on the men of our own town who have been and are turning the wheels of our own city's progress—the men who refuse to sit selfish and satisfied on the theory that things are well enough as they are.

If you run over the history of whatever big improvements have been made in Washington; whatever organizations have been effected for public benefit; whatever movements have been factors in the city's progress, you will invariably find part, or all, of these same men at the wheel.

They must turn the wheel again and again, for comparatively few are fitted for leadership or have the qualifications needed to give it impetus. No matter how great have been the demands upon these willing workers and how fully entitled they are to rest, they cannot afford to let go of the wheels of the community's progress. Their places are not easy to fill.

They are usually men who have succeeded in their own personal business or profession and employ the same methods which have led to their own rise for the weal of the community. Their's is the service of leading to greater attainment, of helping in humanity's multiplying needs and of arousing aspirations above self interest.

Pity the community who has not its share of these wheel turning men.

They are the many sided men—the men of good fellowship—the promoters of fun and laughter at the banquet—the men who reach out the helping hand in whole hearted sympathy—who promote confidence by their own enthusiasm and, who inspire to action by their own zeal.

The public seldom realizes what it owes to the men who again and again take their places at the wheels to accomplish things otherwise impossible. It is only when one of these big, unselfish men drops out and the wheels go slower until some one is found willing to step into his place, that the busy, careless, indifferent throng stops to think what a difference in our city were there no men willing to turn the wheels which revolve for the real benefit of the community.

The Least Expensive Advertising

"Newspaper advertising is the least expensive and most productive of all forms of advertising." A trite statement that has been going the rounds these many years. But a publication "up east" gives it added strength when attention is called to the fact that "a newspaper of average circulation visits more people in one day than a single canvasser could in five years."

Or, again, suppose you had to send letters to the same number of people you reach by one newspaper advertisement; think what it would cost. Further, undertake to have printed the number of circulars that the newspaper prints copies, and have them distributed in any manner you choose—and figure that cost. Yes, newspaper advertising is the least expensive and the most productive of all forms of advertising.—The Dayton News.

Whole World Eventually Will Be Governed by a Few Great Nations

By Count OKUMA, Premier of Japan

THE struggle for existence as laid down by the laws of evolution is not to be avoided. While we believe that struggles arising from race prejudices are wrong, yet we do not believe that peaceful competition will ever cease. We must be careful to keep this point in mind and prepare ourselves with power to meet the struggle for existence. The people who cannot meet this struggle will be crushed. Some one may say that even though a country fall the people of the country may survive. BUT A RACE WHOSE COUNTRY HAS FALLEN, BEING UNABLE TO STAND IN THE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE, IS BOUND TO BE OPPRESSED BY OTHER RACES AND THEIR INCREASE STOPPED.

Thus those who are superior will govern those who are inferior. I believe within two or three centuries the world will have a few great governing countries and others will be governed by them, will pay tribute, each having a population of five hundred million, will be developed, and the other countries will be attached to these great ones.

FOR INSTANCE, ENGLAND, RUSSIA, GERMANY AND FRANCE MAY BE SUCH COUNTRIES. THERE MAY BE ONE OR TWO OTHER INDEPENDENT COUNTRIES. IN THAT EVENT, WOE TO THE NATIONS WHICH ARE GOVERNED.

Poetry For Today

WHAT CONSTITUTES A STATE.

What constitutes a state?
Not high-raised battlements or labor-
ored mound,
Thick wall or moated gate;
Not cities proud, with spires and turrets crowned;
Not days and broad-armed ports,
Where, laughing at the storm, rich
navies ride;
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-born baseness waits perfume to pride.

No! Men—high-minded men—
With powers as far above dull brutes
endued,
In forest, brake, or den,
As beasts excel cold rocks and bram-
bles rude;
Men, who their duties know,
But know their rights, and, knowing,
dare maintain;
Prevent the long-armed blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain.

These constitute a state;
And sovereign Law, that state's collected will,
O'er thrones and globes elate
Sits empress, crowning good, repress-ing ill.
Smite by her sacred frown,
The fiend Dissension like a vapor
sinks;
And e'en the all-dazzling crown
Hides his faint rays, and at her bidding shrinks.

Such was this heaven-loved isle;
Than Lesbos fairer, and the Cretan shore!
No more shall Freedom smile?
Shall Britons languish and be men
no more?
Those sweet rewards which decorate
the brave
'Tis folly to decline,
And steal inglorious to the silent
grave.
Since all must life resign,
—Sir William Jones.

When Men Powdered Their Faces.

The use of powders for the hair and face, which began in the sixteenth century, infected the men. Henry III. had the habit of parading the streets of Paris, his face covered with white and red paste, like a faded coquette, and his hair filled with violet powder and scented with musk. Powders were made of all colors, and the infatuation was such that servant girls were afraid to be seen in public with their hair of the natural color and, not being able to buy that used by their employers, employed sawdust as a substitute.—London Mirror.

Drinking Water.

It is surprising how many people drink little or no water. There is no greater purifying agent than plenty of water internally. An abundance of it not only flushes the entire system, but improves the action of the skin; hence the complexion. Care should be taken that the water drunk is free from germs. If there is any doubt boil it. Do not confine yourself exclusively to either cold or hot water and do not take either at extreme temperatures.

Spilling Some Langwidge.

The graduate of the correspondence school of journalism was mixed up in the recent fire in the New York subway. We know he is a graduate of the J. S. of J. because here is his testimony as given at the official inquiry into the disaster:
"The Stygian darkness ensued, momentarily interrupted by fitful gleams of weird electricity that rose and fell with ghastly effect. Men stood riveted to the spot, women screamed in abject terror, and pandemonium reigned. To increase the realism of living death that seemed to be enshrouding the sepulchral aspect of the place a demoniacal guard of barbarous foreign countenance and accent in guttural tones ordered the transoms closed. I knew the end was nigh and with calm indifference, devoid of hope, awaited the last grewsome catastrophe."

Luke McLuke Says

"You can have twenty virtues and nobody will pay any attention to them. But if you have one vice you will hear about it every five minutes."

If we ever do get so that we will speak nothing but the truth we will extend sympathy instead of congratulations when our friends get married.

The people who kick about divorces being too easy to get are those who have never tried to get a divorce.

A man offers a reward when his dog gets lost. But it is different when his wife runs away.

A woman will admit that the cow jumped over the moon. But she won't admit that any other woman but herself ever moved out of a house and left it clean.

In an ordinary mutt it is just grouch, but in a wealthy man it is temperament.

People are so contrary that a farmer's idea of living is to have lots of fresh vegetables and milk.

A man wouldn't mind his wife losing her temper if she would only lose it permanently.

Of course mother wouldn't knock father. Oh, dear, no! But about ninety-one times a day mother will announce that she "hopes daughter will marry better than I did."

Some people never cast their bread upon the water until it is so stale that they can't use it themselves.

A woman may be compelled to wear a dress that is cut in the 1905 style. But that doesn't prevent her from reading everything she sees about the styles for 1915.

OFFICIALS HOLD ACT UNFRIENDLY

Captain of German Cruiser Admits Sinking American Ship.

CARRYING WHEAT TO ENGLAND

Official Washington Making Every Effort to Get at the Bottom of the Affair, Which Will Likely Result in Diplomatic Negotiations With the Berlin Government—Cruise of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

Washington, March 11.—News of the sinking of an American vessel by the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which arrived at Newport News, after an eventful cruise of six months as a commerce raider, seriously disturbed officials here.

There is no attempt to deny the seriousness of the incident and it was contended that on its face it bore the appearance of an unfriendly act upon the part of a German ship of war, which must result in diplomatic negotiations with the German government.

Such information as had come to official ears from Newport News was in substance that the American steamer William P. Frye, from Seattle to Queenstown, was blown up because the commander of the Eitel held her cargo of wheat to be contraband. It was pointed out that wheat is not contraband unless consigned to a belligerent government or some agent of such government. The Frye's manifest showed her bound for Queens-town "for orders."

Just what demands might be made upon Germany if the blowing up of the Frye was considered an unfriendly act, were not disclosed. It was understood, however, that the United States probably would seek the usual honorable amends under international law as well as reparation for the owners.

The Prinz Eitel undoubtedly will be interned in Hampton Roads unless her commander, Captain Thierichens, is willing to take a chance with the North Atlantic and the allies' ships, with a bottom fouled by six months at sea, with aer plates sprung and her general condition far from seaworthy.

MIS-STEP IN DARKNESS CAUSES INSTANT DEATH

MR. JOHN P. HARSHA, WIDELY KNOWN MONUMENT DEALER FALLS HEADLONG DOWN A FLIGHT OF STAIRS, CRUSHING SKULL AND DYING ALMOST INSTANTLY — MET DEATH IN PASSMORE BUILDING.

A misstep in a dark stairway caused the instant and tragic death of Mr. John P. Harsha, aged 65 years, well known monument dealer of this city, at nine o'clock Wednesday night.

Mr. Harsha met his death on the flight of stairs leading into the Passmore building, at the alley adjoining the Cox livery block on South Fayette street, falling from near the head of the stairs to the landing below, sustaining a fracture of the skull which snuffed out his life almost instantly, life being almost entirely extinct when several persons rushed to his assistance.

Mr. Harsha had gone up to the apartments occupied by Jess Taylor, and as he was leaving the door leading to Taylor's room, he miscalculated the location of the steps and a moment later was plunging headlong down the steep flight of steps, striking the sharp edge of a step and crushing his skull.

Patrolman Baughn was one of the first to reach the dying man, and a low moan was the only indication of life. A moment later he ceased to breathe and a physician arriving at this instant found that life had fled.

The deceased, who weighed more than 200 pounds, had, to all appearances, plunged head-first and his weight added force to the death blow on the steps.

The remains were removed from the stairway to the undertaking establishment of Albert McCoy, and later transferred to the deceased late home on East Market street, where the heart-broken widow was surrounded by friends.

The deceased, in addition to being survived by the widow, leaves three children: Mrs. J. M. Baker, of this city; Mrs. Rex Wells, of Toledo and Mrs. Clarence Frazer, of Xenia. The children were notified at once, and Mrs. Frazer arrived from Xenia Thursday morning, and Mrs. Wells came down from Toledo.

Mr. Harsha moved to this city from Circleville in 1896, and has been engaged in the monument business in this city, for many years having his place of business located on North Fayette street, but for the past four years has had his shop back of his residence lot on East Market street.

During his many years in this city he has erected a large number of fine monuments throughout this part of Ohio.

His death comes as a great shock

DRESS IGNITES AND SMALL CHILD MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

ELMA FAYE, 3-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. ALVA MCCOY, RESIDING ON SNOW HILL PIKE, DIES LAST MIDNIGHT FROM EFFECTS OF HORRIBLE BURNS — LITTLE SISTER SHOWS RARE PRESENCE OF MIND IN RENDERING AID.

Burned almost to a crisp, from her little ankles to the top of her head, but bearing the torture of her burns with a patience remarkable in the extreme, little Elma Fay McCoy, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva McCoy, residing on the Chas. Sheridan farm on the Snow Hill pike, passed quietly over the river into the Great Beyond at midnight Wednesday night, eight hours after the searing flames had done their deadly work.

The shocking tragedy which fell so suddenly upon the McCoy home, in which there were eight happy children, occurred at 4:10 p. m. Wednesday evening, while the child was with her 10-year-old sister Bonnie, the mother being away from the premises at the time.

Little Elma was playing near a heating stove, when her dress was drawn into the stove through the air-shaft, and instantly the child was wrapped in flames which charred and blistered the tender flesh until it bore little resemblance to that of a human being, and until the skin fell from parts of her body, arms and shoulders.

The screams of the little one attracted the attention of the ten-year-old sister, who fought the flames as best she could, showing wonderful presence of mind in her efforts to save the life of her little sister.

Finding that her efforts to extinguish the flames were failing, Bonnie seized a bucket of water and hurled it upon the screaming child, and the flames were smothered, but not before the child had been burned so horribly that words fail to describe her condition.

The older sister then called for help, and Mrs. Chas. Sheridan, who resides nearby, ran to the house and rendered all aid in her power to relieve the sufferings of little Elma. Mrs. Sheridan and the broken-hearted mother worked over the child until a physician arrived and dressed the horrible burns.

Regardless of the tortures from the burns, the child was cheerful and talked almost to the last breath. Just before the end came, near the midnight hour, she called to her father and asked him if he would not get her some candy when he came to town. Receiving the assurance that he would the child closed her eyes and a few minutes later the little life had passed away.

The tragic death of the child has shocked the entire community, and the family has the deep sympathy of all in their great sorrow.

Funeral services will be held at the Staunton M. E. church Friday morning at ten o'clock, and interment will be made in the Staunton cemetery.

INJURED MAN IS PLAYING POSSUM

Carl Campbell, the Paint township farmer who was recently reported badly injured by a neighbor during an encounter, is said to be playing 'possum, and instead of being badly injured as first announced, he is not suffering from injuries administered by Mr. A. H. Graves.

Since the trouble the township trustees of Paint township have been conducting an investigation, and as a result it is expected that Campbell will be asked to quit playing 'possum and get busy.

Mr. Graves, in mentioning the trouble between himself and Campbell, stated that Campbell flourished a knife and that it was then he struck him across the arm with a stick and then struck him in the face. Neither blow knocked him down, Mr. Graves asserts, and the trouble ended without injury to either party.

Both men are tenants on the C. G. Bitzer farm.

GREAT INCREASE IN PRICE OF LAND

Regarding a recent purchase of land in Clinton county, by Grover C. Tobin, of western Fayette, the Wilmington Journal says:

"An example of phenomenal increase in land values in this county was brought to the attention of Recorder Dabe, one day last week, when Grover C. Tobin brought in a deed for 49.70 acres of land in Wayne Township to be recorded.

In looking back over the records, the abstractor found that about twenty years ago the land had changed hands at a price of $1,700. A few years ago Fred L. Jenkins bought the farm, paying about $3,200 for it, and recently he sold it to Mr. Tobin for $7,000. It is not a part of Mr. Dabe's story the amount of improvement made by any of the former owners, nor does he know what Mr. Jenkins did to increase the value of the land 200 per cent. within a very short time.

Everybody knows what Wayne Township land is for fertility, and it is safe to suppose that the increase in the market value of the small farm is due largely to the general increase in the price of farming land.

THE FORTY IMMORTALS.

Origin and Checkered Career of the French Academy.

The Institute of France had its inception in 1530, when there was founded in Paris by the French poet, Antoine de Balf, a literary and musical society, known as the Academy of the Valois. Charles IX. granted it letters patent on Nov. 20, 1570, as the Academy of Poetry and Music. It had, however, no stability. Attacked upon every occasion and criticized by its opponents, its members ceased to meet after 1584. Almost half a century passed before a revival took place.

For some time, since the year 1629, a small circle of enthusiastic students was wont to meet at each other's homes for the study of French language and literature. From year to year its membership increased, and in 1634 Cardinal Richelieu proposed to the society to have their private status changed into a public institution, with many rights and privileges. Upon agreement by the society it was henceforth known as the French Academy, with a charter from Louis XIII. of January, 1635. It consisted then of forty members, the "forty immortals," and at no time and under no pressure whatsoever has this number been increased.

True it is, also, that here royal prerogative and personal intrigue often added an inferior member, while the far superior remained excluded, for whom popular indignation created the world known "forty-first seat." For a century and a half the academy held stated meetings until Aug. 5, 1793.—Argonaut.

The Moth and the Flame.

A naturalist states that a moth—and for that matter many other insects—will fly toward a flame for the same reason that a plant seeks the light. Insects, it seems, move in the direction of the light rays that fall upon them. But the light must be of considerable intensity to produce a marked result. Toward a feeble glare the insect would move but leisurely, but in the case of a concentrated light like the flame of a candle or lamp the insect travels with great rapidity to its death.

Crossing the Channel.

What landing at Sandwich was like in 1533 we learn from Hubertus, the envoy of the Palgrave Frederick to Henry VIII., whose story is given in Mrs. Henry Cust's "Gentlemen Errant." Hubertus was detained for a week at Calais by stormy weather and had a terrible time when he finally hired a ship and crossed. A young Englishman compelled the sailors to do their duty by ropes' ends and threats of death, and taught Hubertus, who was "mildling seasick," to pump out the water, which he did "till at the break of morning the winds fell, and we saw the mountains of England spread out before us." They found themselves on Sandwich (that most famous district) and were taken to the ship in small boats and carried "neck or back" to land.—London Chronicle.

SECRETARY'S REPORT
STARTLES COMMITTEES

PATTON'S STATEMENT SHOWS THAT UNPAID BILLS AMOUNTING TO $242.72 HAVE ACCUMULATED SINCE FIRST OF YEAR AND THAT BUDGET HAS FALLEN SHY OVER $400—INSTANT RECUPERATIVE ACTION IS LAUNCHED—RESIGNATION OF TRUSTEE WALTER CLARK ANNOUNCED—TWO PLACES TO FILL AT ANNUAL ELECTION OF TRUSTEES NEXT MONTH.

For the first time under its new administration the controlling committees of the Y. M. C. A. were brought to a realization Wednesday evening that threatening weeds had sprung in the path of progress, and the awakening was brought about by the presentation of Secretary Patton's financial report for the month past and the subsequent action of the secretary in pointing out that during January and February the institution had fallen back $242.72, the same representing unpaid bills. Mr. Patton also showed the committees that a budget estimate of $422 on memberships had not materialized, in accounting for the deficit. The deficit represents unpaid bills and it the first noted since Mr. Patton's administration began in August.

The presentation of Mr. Patton's report followed an oyster supper at which Chairman Brownell of the Board of Directors acted as host to the directors and the members of the Physical and Membership Committees, who have been working shoulder to shoulder in the past few months in an effort to increase the membership roll of the institution. This report was responsible for the three hours' conference that continued from 7 until 10 o'clock.

Many suggestions were offered and considered and a plan was finally decided upon to secure the membership necessary to cover the deficit, and was put into action immediately. The success of the plan is to be announced within two or three weeks.

A special feature of the meeting, aside from the consideration of the deficit, was the appointment by Chairman Brownell of a nominating committee, comprised of Messrs Earl McLean, R. C. Pedicord and Charles A. Reid, which will receive nominations for trustees to be elected at the annual election the first Wednesday in April.

Two known vacancies are to be filled: that of Trustee R. C. Pedicord, whose term expires, and that caused by the resignation of Trustee Walter Clark, who is now in Georgia. This resignation was announced last night by Secretary Patton but was not formally received, owing to the absence of a quorum. It is the privilege of any member of the Association to vote for nominees and the requirement is that the nomination be contained in writing and filed with the Nominating Committee, with signature. These nominations should be sent in immediately.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was a suggestion offered by Mr. C. L. Craig. Mr. Craig, speaking as a non-member, gave it as his opinion that a good way to increase the membership among the boys, so as to include such classes as remain away, would be to hold frequent competitive athletic contests for prizes in the building. The suggestion was received favorably and will be seriously taken up. Mr. Craig also suggested a novel plan which he calculated would raise sufficient money for "easy running" and at the same time be a general benefit to the community. This too will come in for weighty consideration.

Another joint meeting will be held next Thursday evening and will be preceded by a supper to be tendered by another member of the board of directors, whose name is withheld until he has been informed of the arrangement.

Mr. Al. Sorrell, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, by Rev. Barnes, at the M. E. parsonage in New Holland.

After a short wedding trip they will reside on the Chillicothe pike, Mr. Garringer having purchased the old Hukill homestead, with its extensive farm.

The young couple have the best wishes of their many friends in this vicinity.

A large number of women thoroughly enjoyed the fortnightly Kensington of Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Wm. Hammer hospitably extended the accommodations of her home and was assisted in entertaining by Messdames J. W. Wilson, Elmer Klever, W. M. Brady, Millikan, Worrell and Brown.

Appetizing refreshments were served.

One of the most delightful of surprise parties was given for Miss Louise Larrimer Wednesday evening by Misses Elizabeth Allen and Lizzie Ellen Green at Miss Green's home.

Suggestions of St. Patrick's day were effectively carried out in a green and white color scheme. Music and "an old saying contest" in which Miss Harriet Allen won the prize, were diversions of the evening.

Late in the evening a delicious two-course lunch was served.

Assisting the pretty young hostesses were Mrs. Green, Mrs. J. A. Johnson and Mrs. Larrimer. Sixteen guests participated in the pleasures of the evening.

WOMEN PEARL DIVERS.

In Japan They Are Taught to Swim While Mere Babies.

In Japan, where pearl fishing is an important industry, nine-tenths of the pearl divers are women. Tiny girls, mere babies, are taught by their mothers to swim, and later to dive, the seashore is their playground, and at thirteen or fourteen, when they leave school, they are usually ready to begin diving in earnest. A good mother superintends her daughter's diving exercises as carefully and instructs her as faithfully as any good German hausfrau instructs her daughter in domestic tasks.

A girl does not reach her highest point of efficiency until she is about twenty-five years old. She works from eight to ten hours a day, with only two holidays a month, diving in from fifteen to forty-five feet of water. January and February are too cold for all day work, but even then she often spends from one to five hours daily on and under the water. She wears a special dress of white cotton bloomers and short skirt, her hair is twisted into a tight knot with a cloth wound through it on top of her head, and she wears goggles to protect her eyes. A small tub attached to her waist holds the oysters. She earns from fifteen cents to a dollar a day.

On this small pay she often saves a considerable amount of money, which constitutes her dowry.—Youth's Companion.

LOCUST TREES.

They Are Very Easy to Raise and Yield Valuable Timber.

No wood is easier or more quickly grown than the common locust, and but few if any kinds of timber are more valuable to their owners at this time of need in lumber that has a commercial value.

Curiously enough locust trees will grow in almost any soil. They are easily started and can be transplanted without danger of loss. They also may be grown in out of the way or waste places where the soil is unfit for cultivation, and they grow so rapidly that in a few years a locust grove will have trees that are large enough to be made into posts for fencing or lumber for furniture or house finishing.

Locusts bear the most honey laden flower carried by any tree extensively grown in America, and where there are plenty of locusts and bees in the same community there will be a heavy yield of honey.

Locust posts have been known to remain in the ground for fencing purposes for a period of sixty years, and when removed the bark was not decayed, and the wood was almost as solid as iron.

The latest use for locust is in the manufacture of fine furniture and interior finishing of fine residences. The wood has a grain and color not found in any other timber.—New York Journal.

In Social Circles

Mrs. Jesse Persinger and Miss Persinger entertained with Bridge parties that take prestige among the most beautifully appointed and charming of the season, at the home of the former on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Brilliant spring sunshine flooded the handsomely furnished rooms, redolent with roses and carnations in graceful arrangement and the popular game was followed by an elaborate collation, in which the pink and white color scheme was artistically employed.

Mrs. W. F. Morford, of Columbus, received with her daughter and Miss Persinger, and Mesdames Fitzgerald, Miss Junk, Zander and Miss Chapman assisted. Emma Marchant catered.

Relatives and friends in this city have received the following announcement:

"Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Mershon announce the marriage of their daughter, Hazel Marie, to Mr. Daniel R. Wolf on Saturday, March sixth, nineteen hundred fifteen, Columbus, Ohio. At home, 1799 East 63rd St., Cleveland, Ohio."

The marriage is the culmination of a youthful romance, the bride and bridegroom having been sweethearts since their school days.

The bride, formerly of this city, where she retains a host of warm friends, gives up in her marriage a very promising career as teacher of physical culture. For several years she was engaged in the play ground work of Columbus and the past year filled the position of assistant supervisor of physical culture of several city schools. She is a bright, attractive girl and very popular with her pupils.

The bridegroom graduated from the O. S. U. in the electrical engineering course and is already making good in municipal contract work in the city of Cleveland.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas H. Campbell, pastor of the King Avenue M. E. church, on Saturday afternoon, March sixth, at 3 o'clock at the Mershon home on West 11th avenue.

NEW DRIVE BEING MADE BY GERMANS

Attempting to Force Russian Lines in North Poland.

FRESH TROOPS BROUGHT UP

Point Selected For the Attack the Most Favorable Along the East
Prussian Front—Berlin Challenges
French Reports of Gains in the Western Zone—Bombardment of the Dardanelles.

London, March 11.—The Germans are making another attempt to break through the Russian line of fortresses in northern Poland. They are advancing from Khorjele, on the East Prussian frontier, along the Orzyc river and by the roads leading southward to Przasnysz. This is one of the routes the Germans took in their great rush from East Prussia in February, which finally was checked at Przasnysz.

For their new attempt they have brought up troops which have been operating in the region of Grodno and some of the new army which has been training since the outbreak of the war in the interior of Germany.

The point selected for the attack is the most favorable along the East Prussian front, for the splendid railway system can bring troops and their supplies to the border, from which good roads lead to Przasnysz.
A big battle is developing in this region,
while one of almost equal importance is in progress farther north in the region of Suwalki, where the Russians have pressed the Germans back to their own border.

The Russians appear to have countered successfully the German offensive on the Pilica river, and in the Carpathians they are withstanding
continued attacks along the whole front.

In the western war zone the fighting,
as for many weeks past, has been confined to the Champagne region,
the Argonne and the Vosges, although there has been an occasional skirmish north of Arras. The Germans, in a long report, say that the French offensive in the Champagne has been fruitless, which is at variance with the French reports of almost daily progress.

With all this heavy fighting on the continent, the people of England continue to concern themselves chiefly with the operations of the German submarines, one of which was sunk
by the destroyer Ariel, and the attempt to force the Dardanelles.

So far as the operations in the Dardanelles are concerned, the most significant news is that the superdreadnought Queen Elizabeth has entered the straits and commenced to bomb

hard the forts in the narrows by direct fire. It is considered very certain that Vice Admiral Carden would not allow his biggest ship to pass the entrance unless it was fairly safe.

ALLIED TROOPS MAKE ADVANCES

Paris, March 11.—The bombardment of Nieuport by the Germans with their forty-two centimeter guns and a victory of the British troops near La Bassee are the principal features of the communique issued by the French war office. This is the first time that the enemy has brought his heaviest artillery to bear on Nieuport,
which was badly damaged.

The efforts of the British north of La Bassee and of the French to the south have been directed for more than a month towards driving the Germans from that town, which they have fortified until it is one of the strongest points on their entire line.
The British troops, supported by heavy artillery, not only captured the village of Neuve Chapelle, north of La Bassee, but advanced some distance toward the town of Aubers, to the northeast. They are now within striking distance of the railway line running from La Bassee.

AMERICAN STEAMER SEIZED BY BRITISH

Savannah, Ga., March 11.—The American steamer Vigilancia, owned and bound for Bremen with cotton, has been intercepted by a British

Vigilancia sailed from Savannah
on Feb. 22.

FIGHTING FOR PEACE

Berlin, March 11.—The reichstag
met with a large attendance of members.
Many of them, including Socialists,
were dressed in field gray uniforms.
Johannes Kaempf, president of the chamber, delivered a short address.
He said: "Our sacrifices are gigantic, but on the blood-soaked battlefields
a lasting peace is springing up which will lead our great and beloved fatherland to new and flourishing power. In the south, the brave Turkish army is guarding the Dardanelles, which a great Anglo-French fleet is vainly attempting to conquer.
This army is also threatening the Suez canal and Egypt, which has become the prey of the British empire."

Dr. Karl Helfferich, secretary of the imperial treasury, submitted the budget and delivered his maiden speech concerning it. He made a good impression.

STATE'S CASE APPEARS WEAK

New York, March 11.—The aspect of Harry Thaw's trial for conspiracy took a somewhat expected turn when it became apparent that the state's case was about completed without any direct evidence actually proving Thaw to have conspired with anybody to get out of Matteawan.

This fact is especially disturbing to Thaw's counsel, for it practically dismisses what hopes they may have had for a verdict of guilty with the accompanying inference of sanity which would naturally be carried with such a finding. It has been known from the outset that John B. Stanchfield, Thaw's chief of counsel, has regarded a possible verdict of guilty as an admission, by inference at least, that Thaw was sane enough to have conspired. Such a verdict would be used as a proof of Thaw's sanity before a jury in habeas corpus proceedings
after the plea is settled. The admitted weakness of the state's case has increased the likelihood of the indictment being dismissed.

Mr. Thompson's Model

And How She Got a Permanent Engagement.

By ALICE R. WETMORE.

"Where are you, Bill?" came a lazy drawl from the tiny anteroom, which Thompson designated the office.

"Here," replied that gentleman as distinctly as a mouthful of brushes would permit. "It's only Carter," he explained to his model. "Or perhaps you'd rather?"

"Oh, let him come in by all means,"
replied the girl. "I'd rather like to see him."

A long, clean limbed young fellow languidly, in a moment behind Thompson's canvas and then sank lazily into a pile of cushions
on the floor.

The girl on the model stand scrutinized him closely and made up her mind that he was the most typically lazy man she had ever seen. His voice, his walk, his carriage, had an absolute lack of effort that was positively fascinating, and to complete the impression his strong, lean face was absolutely devoid of expression.

Suddenly, however, he gazed intently and with a semblance of awakened interest at the model. The pose was rather striking. A heavy black velvet gown accentuated that peculiar transparency of coloring which accompanies a certain deep rich shade of auburn hair.
A dull green background reconciled
the brilliant coloring of the upper part of the picture to the dusky mysteries of the lower canvas. The pose of the figure was saved from insolence only by the winsomeness of the face.

Carter pulled lazily at his pipe and continued to gaze at the girl with half closed critical eyes. "Nice color," he finally asserted. "By Jove, that's a wonderful pose!" with a sudden burst of enthusiasm that startled the girl.
"Are you engaged after you finish with Thompson?"

The other artist opened his mouth;
then, with a quiet smile, closed it again. The girl smiled, too, a little smile that curled her upper lip deliciously.

"No, sir; I'm not engaged next week," she replied quietly.

"Can you come to me for a two weeks' pose, then, in the mornings?" Thompson looked dubiously at the girl. "Yes, sir, I'll come," she said.

The next Monday the model presented herself at John Carter's studio. He scarcely looked up as he greeted her.

"Oh, is that you, Miss—Do you know, I forgot to ask your name," he drawled.

"Parks," the girl supplied smilingly.

The gown he gave her was also black. He had hung heavy stuffs around and above the model stand until the black gown and the background mingled darkly and the white face and auburn hair fairly jumped from the gloom in a single, startling note of color.

Carter set to work with a feverish
energy which quite transformed him.
He tried first one pose, then another,
in such rapid succession that the girl
was positively bewildered.

When he had at last found one that pleased him he drawled apologetically, with a slow, winning smile, "I'm rather a hard fellow to get started, Miss Parks, but I won't give you much trouble once we're off."

The girl watched the man with fascinated eyes. He worked with the precision and energy of a splendid machine.

People Say To Us

not agree with me." Our advice to chin. His face shone with positive inspiration.

As for Carter himself, he was blissfully happy. With the true artist's sensitiveness he felt the absence of the usual clash between the half hearted, prosaic models and the ideals he struggled to embody by their aid. The atmosphere lacked a single inharmonious element, for the girl seemed to throw her whole personality into the work.

At last he emerged from his trance sufficiently to observe that a white line had appeared around the girl's compressed lips and that she wavered as she stood.

"It must be time to rest," he observed. "Why," as he glanced at the clock, "you've been posing for nearly an hour. Why didn't you rest?" he demanded reproachfully.

The girl sank into a chair with an amused gleam in her eyes. "I never saw anybody so completely lost," she said. "I couldn't bear to disturb you."

The next morning he found himself awaiting with unmistakable impatience the arrival of his model, and when at last she did stand before him with a smiling "Good morning" on her lips he regarded the girl with an artist's satisfaction.

She was charming in her dark street gown. Her face was flushed and her eyes bright with the exhilaration of an autumn morning, and Carter was strongly tempted to put away serious work and make a study of her as she stood. He banished the idea, however, and soon they were at work on the "masterpiece." He refused to believe it when the noon whistle insisted that it was 12 o'clock and Miss Parks departed.

The afternoon was unprecedentedly long. He felt strangely disinclined to work and finally put aside the canvas
and brought out some unfinished sketches. He worked on these until he discovered that he had converted five different heads into unmistakable likenesses of Miss Parks. Then he muttered something beneath his breath
and gave up in despair.

At the end of the last day but one of the two weeks Carter realized that the central figure of his canvas was completed, and the realization brought a poignant feeling of regret. The reason for it came when it suddenly flashed upon him that tomorrow was Miss Parks' last day. And then it was that Carter made a discovery that a less experienced man would have made long before. It came with such a shock that he was fairly stunned.
He, John Carter, the most unimpressive
of men, in love with his model!

When Miss Parks appeared the next day he greeted her with his usual cheerful "Good morning," but not an other word was spoken until she had taken the old familiar pose—for the last time, he said to himself, with a pang.

There was a strange restraint of which both were aware. At last,
"This is the last day of the pose," the girl ventured. Carter worked furiously.
"Yes," he answered shortly. Another pause. "Then you won't want me any more?" The girl's voice strove hard to be commonplace.

Carter threw down his palette in despair. The girl kept her pose bravely, her pretty head tilted, but the eyes which met Carter's held a look which even he could not mistake. The man brushed his hand across his eyes in a quick, desperate little gesture. He seemed to have brushed the old nonchalance away. He was fairly transformed.

"Want you?" he gasped. "Want you?
Don't you know I want you more than anything in the world?"

"But you don't understand," the girl began finally in a voice that was somewhat smothered by Carter's broad shoulder. "There are reasons," she continued, with dignity, "why I cannot marry you."

"I am all ears," avowed Carter solemnly, "but you won't mind if I say right now that the reasons won't make a particle of difference, will you?"

"Oh, but they will. I've been deceiv-ing you," she confessed haltingly.
"Go on," commanded Carter more soberly. All kinds of dreadful possibilities loomed up before him.

"You'll never love me when you know," she continued, with visible effort. "I—I'm not a model at all. I'm Billy Thompson's cousin," she rushed on, "and when you came in and thought I was a professional I wouldn't let Billy tell you, and—I thought it would be such a good joke because Billy had told me how you never cared for girls or anything, and—"

"You there, Jim?" interrupted a familiar voice from the hall. The girl fled to the model stand and took her pose. Carter dabbed lazily and with perfect composure at his canvas.

Billy strolled in, an amused look in his eyes. "Nice model," he remarked.
"Can I engage you for next week, my pretty maid?"

Carter turned about lazily and regarded his friend.

"I'm afraid not, Billy," he drawled.
"You see, your cousin has a permanent engagement with me."

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Children and Sickness.

Train children when well to be docile patients when ill was the advice of Dr. Charles H. Smith at the New York Academy of Medicine. "I am confident that many little lives could be saved," said Dr. Smith, "if mothers would only teach their children
the few simple duties that a sick child must know. Taking a child's temperature, for instance,
would seem easy, but I have known children desperately ill
who screamed and were so wrought up at the thought of it that it was almost impossible to do, and consequently the patient
could not be properly treated."

"Every child should be taught to show his throat. I expect most physicians have had the humiliating and very harrowing experience of being obliged to force a spoon down a little throat while the child fought and struggled and the parents were in dismay. It would be easy enough to teach any child to show his throat whenever he was asked."

"I should go so far as to recommend keeping a healthy, normal child in bed one day every few weeks that he might get thoroughly used to it and that the family might not be kept in actual torture when he is really ill."

Maple Seed Aeroplane.

One of the newest flying machines is said to be shaped on the plan of a maple seed. This seed has, as we know, one long, queerly curving wing and two seeds hang from the stem in pairs, making a very pretty pair of tiny wings to dangle in the breeze or to float far in the wind when they break from the twig. The new aeroplane, however, is shaped like a single wing and seed. It has what is called a hollow blade wing, given its motion by a rapid current of air that passes

Bowser's Appendicitis

He Expects It Along Any Minute.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

When Mr. Bowser awoke the other morning he heaved a long sigh. When he got out of bed he groaned as though in pain. As he dressed himself he had visions of somber graveyards and weeping willows. When he came downstairs he intended to tell Mrs. Bowser that the end of things for him was near, but something happened to stop him. He saw her looking at him in an ironical way without the slightest note of pity. It cut him to the quick. She must know that he was suffering, and yet she could pitilessly look on and make game of him. Mr. Bowser braced up like a bent bow springing back. He took his seat at the table as its master should. He ate with a dignity becoming a Bowser. When he had finished the meal he rose and departed for the office without unbending. As he came home at the usual evening hour he sniffed and sniffed at the atmosphere of the hall and observed: "I should say you had a boiled dinner waiting." "One of the best you ever ate," replied Mrs. Bowser. "That's very nice of you, I'm sure; but unfortunately for me, I cannot partake of it." "But why?" "Our Advice Is: When you feel out of sorts from constipation, let us say that if Rexall Orderlies do not relieve you, see a physician, because no other home remedy will. Top row, left to right—Clark Griffith, manager of the Washingtons; B. F. Shibe, part owner of the Athletics; Frank Navin of the Detroit Tigers; Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics; Ernest Barnard of Cleveland; Harry Grabiner of the Chicago White Sox; Robert Lee Hedges, owner of the St. Louis Browns. Lower row—Benjamin S. Minor, principal owner of the Washingtons; Captain T. L. Huston, one of the new owners of the Yankees; Ban Johnson, president of the American league; Jacob Ruppert, one of the new owners of the Yankees; Joseph J. Linn, owner of the Boston Red Sox.

"I got a little warning today that I think best to heed." "What sort of warning?" "Dr. MacCreedy was in the office on some business, and, hearing me utter an involuntary groan as I rose up, he began to question me. It wasn't five minutes before he announced that I would have to be very careful or fall a victim to appendicitis. He said I had all the symptoms of it." "I don't believe any such talk, Mr. Bowser! I haven't heard you groan, involuntarily or otherwise, for a year. Did he charge you a fee for telling you this?" "He made no charge, but, then, naturally." "Naturally you went and handed him over at least $5, while I am in need of a dozen different little things. You have no more cause to be afraid of appendicitis than I have of the Indian plague. Why do you let people worry you like this?" "Softly, now, softly!" he said, as he led the way to the dining room, instead of shouting "Woman!" at her. "Mrs. Bowser, I cannot be classed as an alarmist. Thousands of things have ailed me, and I have never said a word to you about them. I wasn't going to say a thing in this case, but, being put on a diet by the doctor, I had to make some explanations. I have known for months and months that the appendicitis was after me. I have figured that when it overtook me at last I would make a sneak for the hospital and have the operation performed before you knew anything about it. That is the way with me. I do my own worrying and planning." "Well, what symptoms have you felt?" she asked. "Pains in the back, roaring in the head, wakefulness and all that. There are days when black specks dance before my eyes. The other morning when I got up my teeth seemed too long." "And that ass of a doctor made you believe those were symptoms of appendicitis?" "I knew they were before he confirmed me. I have been saved by just one week." "How?" "I am going to follow the directions given me by the doctor." "Did he tell you to sleep with your feet out of bed and breakfast, dine and sup on catnip?" "No, ma'am, he didn't. He told me to live on milk and water for the next four days. That boiled dinner smells to heaven, but I can't touch a mouthful of it. It's either milk and water or death for me." "Look here, now," she said, determined on one last argument. "I have known of as many as five cases of appendicitis, right around here, and

"In case this milk and water diet doesn't stave off appendicitis and the results are fatal you will find all my business papers in the safe," he observed as he walked up and down. "Very well." "You will not be forced to marry to keep a roof over your head." "No?" "Naturally I would rather you would not marry at all, but I am not going to exact any promise. I do wish, however, that you would visit my grave once in awhile. I shan't know it, of course, but it will help you not to forget me." "I shall visit it once in two weeks during good weather," she replied as she saw his lip trembling. "That is all I ask. The doctor assured me that milk and water would stave off the impending danger, but I have a presentiment, Mrs. Bowser—a presentiment that appendicitis will come and terminate fatally." "And I have a presentiment that I shall some day meet that fool of a doctor and tell him what I think of him. It's just biliousness that ails you, and a dose or two of calomel would set you to singing. There are yellow streaks under your eyes, and those mean biliousness and nothing else." Mr. Bowser shook his head and heaved a sigh that finally terminated in a groan and brought the cat out from under the piano. Then he started down the hall and put on his hat. "Are you going out?" was asked. "I'm going after a quart of milk. I may wake up in the night and want a drink. I may also talk with the druggist if he isn't busy. I am sure he would help you about the funeral arrangements."

Mrs. Bowser was glad to have him go. She knew the druggist was a blunt spoken man and would diagnose the case pretty speedily. She therefore ran into a neighbor's for an hour. Mr. Bowser made his way to the druggist's, and not finding him rushed, he began: "Doc, take a careful look at my face, will you?" "Cert. Thinking of trading it off for a new one?" "Does my phiz tell you anything?" "Not much. It never did. The yellow streaks under your eyes show that you are bilious."

"What do pains in the back signify?" "Rheumatism, generally." "And roaring in the head?" "A cold." "And when your teeth seem too long?" "A little neuralgia in the jaws. Why, what do you think ails you?" "I was told by a doctor this morning that those symptoms heralded an attack of appendicitis." "Herald your grandmother! Somebody has been making a fool of you again. You may have appendicitis some day, but it won't come on that way. What did the so called doctor tell you to do?" "Drink milk and water," sighed Mr. Bowser. "You ought to be kept on that diet for the rest of your natural life. Didn't Mrs. Bowser say the fellow was a humbug?" "Well—er—you know—" "Of course she did, and of course he is. Go home and eat a hearty dinner. Eat as much as you want tomorrow and then take some calomel. Say, man, if you hadn't the wife you have somebody would get the socks off your feet."

Mr. Bowser didn't jaw back. He was too elated. Ten minutes later the cook was heaping the remains of that boiled dinner on the table, and he was eating like a Michigan lumberman. Mrs. Bowser came home and surprised him at it. "Well, you saw the druggist?" she queried as he refilled his plate. "The druggist? What about?" "About your threatened appendicitis." "I hadn't heard anything about being threatened."

The Broad Way Leads to Goodyear Tires

Try it a little while. It has carried some 400,000 motorists to the haven of content. It is traveled by more users than has any other tire. That has been so for years.

We can't win you to Fortified Tires by asking you to try them. The tires themselves must win you. But our plea is that you should try the tires that countless men found best. There must be a reason as you know, why Goodyears dominate like this. Last year men bought about one Goodyear for every car in use.

Men Like You

This Goodyear army is composed of men like you. They want quality, safety, endurance. They want trouble-saving and low cost per mile.

Goodyears best met these wants. They met them because they are Fortified Tires.

GOOD YEAR
AKRON, OHIO
Fortified Tires
No-Rim-Cut Tires—On-Air Cured With All-Weather Treads or Smooth

In five costly ways, employed by no other maker, they offer unique protection. They combat five troubles—rim-cuts, blowouts, loose treads, punctures and skidding—as is done in no other tire.

Price Reduction

On February 1st we made another big price reduction. That makes three reductions in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Today Goodyears, more than ever before, offer you most for the money. They offer you the utmost possible in tires, measured by cost per mile. Doesn't their top place prove that?

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith are celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary today. Twenty-five years ago today in 1890 Mr. B. F. Smith and Mrs. Josie Blakemore were married in Kansas City, Kans., by Rev. Wm. Jones a former pastor of the M. E. church in Lawrence.

The peculiar feature about this anniversary is that this is the third wedding for both Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and not many third marriages ever last through twenty-five years of married life. Mr. Smith was first married in 1861.

Mr. Smith was born in Henry county, Tennessee, 1836, and Mrs. Josephine Smith in Ross county, Ohio in 1846. Mr. Smith has been in the fruit growing business for forty-eight years and for thirty-five years he has been located in and near Lawrence. He is now the President of the State and the Douglas County Horticulture Society.

This clipping from the Lawrence, Kansas, paper will be of great interest to Washington friends of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Smith. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mrs. M. J. Clifton, of south Fayette street, and a sister-in-law to Mrs. K. C. Maynard.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. S. Fisher.

BATTLES AND DOWNPOURS.

There is No Connection Between Gun-fire and Rainstorms.

So far as the records are available, the rain accompanying or immediately following great battles is not unlike that which might have been expected in the course of natural events, says a writer in the Popular Science Monthly. Bearing in mind the fact, already stated, that throughout large areas rain occurs on an average once in three or four days and also the subjective fact that rain associated with July 4 celebrations or with battles would doubtless not have been remembered had it not been for such associations, the hypothesis appears to have no foundation.

In 1892 the United States government disproved the idea by experiments in which violent explosions of dynamite were produced within clouds by means of kites and balloons, with no rain following as a direct or even as an indirect result. The practice, still followed in various European countries, of attempting to prevent hail by bombarding approaching clouds or of projecting vortex rings of smoke upward also is without scientific basis. The relatively feeble convective currents resulting from these artificial attempts to influence the weather are too meager to have any appreciable effect upon the massive convection accompanying storms and are wholly inadequate to influence precipitation.

SWISS MILITARY SYSTEM.

Tests All Youths Must Pass Before They Become Soldiers.

The Swiss system is ultra militaristic and probably would never be acceptable to the United States. But it is interesting, nevertheless, as indicating how the problem of defense has been met and apparently solved by the earnest and patriotic people of a republic like our own.

The Swiss system is compulsory and begins with the early schooling of each boy. He does not drill or handle firearms, however, until he is twenty years old, when he reports to federal authorities for physical and literary examination. He must be able to read and write and figure, and answer questions in elementary Swiss history and geography.

The physical tests require that the applicant shall cover at least eight feet in a running jump, lift a weight of thirty-seven pounds in both hands at least four times, and run eighty yards in fourteen seconds.

Those who fail in these tests are given an extension of time for further training, not to exceed four years, and if physically disqualified at the end of that period they are obliged to pay a tax, or to take some assigned position which they can fill.—Kansas City Journal.

The Sixteenth Century Carver.

At the formal banquet of the sixteenth century the man who carved the meat was bound with the red tape of precedent. When carving for distinguished guests he had to remember that certain parts of the birds or meat must be set aside. In carving for his lord and lady he was expected to exercise great discretion in the size of the pieces he sent round, "for ladies will be soon angry and their thoughts soon changed, and some lords are soon pleased and some not, as they be of complexion." He was expected to have the rules both of the kitchen and the peacery at his knife's end. A pike, for instance, must be dished up whole for a lord and in slices for commoner folk. The rank of his diners, too, determined whether a pig was to be served up whole, sliced, plain or with gold leaf or whether new bread or bread three days old should be eaten.
